this new volume in the award winning encountering mission series is for current and future missionaries it provides practical guidance regarding getting ready for the mission field and the realities of life on the field the authors are well qualified to write such a manual each having served as a missionary for more than twenty years and each having taught missions in seminary the authors begin by examining the contemporary context for missions including the recognition that the world's mission fields are in constant and often rapid change they then discuss aspects of preparing oneself for the mission field beginning with home front preparations and moving to on the field preparations the final section deals with practical issues and challenges of missionary life world missions needs a fully biblical ethos this is the contention of the editors of and contributors to world mission a series of essays aimed at reforming popular approaches to missions in the first set of essays contributors develop a biblical theology of world missions from both the old and new testaments arguing that the theology of each must stand in the foreground of missions not recede into the background in the second they unfold the great commission in sequence detailing how it determines the biblical strategy of all mission enterprises finally they treat current issues in world missions from the perspective of the sufficiency of scripture altogether this book aims to reform missions to be thoroughlyâ not just foundationallyâ biblical a needed correction even among the sincerest missionaries missiology and the social sciences contributions cautions and conclusions missiology draws from several sources these include god's revelation in holy scripture historical creeds and theology past and present missionary experiences and various social sciences that help us to understand diverse cultural and religious dynamics but how exactly do these sources relate to one another how do we balance and prioritize the contributions of each missiology and the social sciences answer these questions with scholarly care on the one hand it's unthinkable that missionaries would not use the social sciences such as anthropology and linguistics how else would we translate the bible and learn about other cultures on the other hand some writers warn of the subtle danger that social sciences could undermine biblical authority cultural bias also might affect social science research and hinder our ability to discern what god is doing around us the contributors in this book help readers understand the debate and its many practical implications it equips missionaries to engage the social sciences in more thoughtful ways that can bear gospel fruit career defining crises in mission is written to help missionaries evaluate their ministry approaches and to pursue those that place relationships over programs each of the 12 chapters takes a well known missiological principle and instead of focusing on the theory behind it uses bible studies illustrations true stories and practical suggestions to encourage missionaries to make decisions that cultivate relationships with people as they choose mission methods understanding language contact offers an accessible and empirically grounded introduction to contact linguistics rather than taking a traditional focus on the outcomes of language contact this book takes the novel approach of considering these outcomes as an endpoint of bilingualism and multilingualism covering speech production and comprehension language diffusion across different interactional networks and timeframes and the historical outcomes of contact induced language change this book discusses both how these areas relate to one another and how they correspond to different theoretical fields and methodologies draws together concepts and methodological theoretical advances from the related fields of bilingualism and sociolinguistics to show how these can shed new light on the traditional field of contact linguistics presents up to date research in a digestible form includes examples from a wide range of contact languages including creoles and pidgins indigenous minority and heritage languages mixed languages and immigrants linguistic practices to illustrate ideas and concepts features exercises to test students understanding as well as suggestions for further reading to expand knowledge in specific areas written by three experienced teachers and researchers in this area understanding language contact is key reading for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students approaching bilingualism and language contact for the first time an in situ or on location approach to language learning is presented for people going abroad for an extended period of time the approach features two components 1 the use of a mentor native speaker who lives in the community and serves as a guide and 2 the daily learning cycle of planning practicing communicating face to face and evaluating this approach gives the traveler responsibility for learning in real interaction situations with immediate feedback examples of topics covered include benchmarks for evaluation selection communication with and compensation for a mentor hints for increasing interaction opportunities language structures nuance and word clusters cultural appropriateness and getting a head start at home six
